

We are excited to share important news with you. On April 19, 2010, Global Lead joined Novations to create “Global Novations.” The new firm will provide a broader and more holistic suite of services around talent optimization, diversity training and leadership development, strengthening our ability to help you accelerate the achievement of your business objectives.

Global Lead is an established provider of diversity & inclusion consulting and interactive solutions and Novations is recognized for its robust training platform, global strategy and strong product line. Both organizations are focused on enhancing individual and organizational productivity.

Global Novations will combine the thought leadership and technology of the two firms to meet your needs for enterprise-level training and development, global program deployment and measurement to increase the productivity and competitiveness of organizations worldwide.

This is a promising turning point in our future together and we will ensure a seamless transition. Subject matter experts from both companies will offer touch points along the journey as well as broader and deeper solutions to meet your needs, seeking to evolve and grow your human capital globally.

The strength of Global Novations lies in a seasoned and diverse group of subject matter experts able to address a broad spectrum of complex issues: managing global market and workforces, securing and advancing high-value talent, and supply chain and operations challenges.

In addition, our new entity allows us to leverage technology to better serve your needs globally, in real time and across multiple locations or enterprises. Scalable training, communication and benchmarking allow us to increase your company’s effectiveness throughout the world.

Please reach out if you have any questions.

Best regards,

Oris R. Stuart
CEO and Board Director
Global Novations

Michael Hyter
President and Board Director
Global Novations