SYSCO Corporation has partnered with Athena Partners, a not-for-profit bottled water organization to bring you another opportunity to support cancer research.

Athena water was created with the goal of finding a cure for women's cancers. Athena Partners, a Seattle based not-for-profit organization, sells bottled water with a unique cause-based message - 100% of the profits are devoted to finding a cure. Athena water provides the means for individuals to use their everyday purchasing power to make an important difference in the fight against women's cancers.

Initially distributed in the Northwest markets, Athena water is currently rolling out nationally through Sysco Corporation to restaurants, hospitals and institutions, and other food providers. Athena is also the official bottled water served on Alaska Airlines flights.

About the water:

Athena bottled water is purified water with minerals added to help replenish electrolytes. The water undergoes state-of-the-art reverse osmosis and ozonation purification to ensure Athena water is consistent and high quality, with a pure fresh taste.
